Behaviour Analysts in Australia

The Association for Behaviour Analysis Australia

The Association for Behaviour Analysis Australia (ABA Australia) is the peak professional body representing behaviour analysts in Australia. Behaviour analysis is a self-regulated profession in Australia; therefore, registration or licensing is not mandated.

ABA Australia uses professional self-regulation through the establishment of standards, codes and guidelines that credentialed members adhere to. This includes, but is not limited to: Code of Ethical Practice, Australian Professional Competency for behaviour analyst and Continuing Professional Development Policy.

Professional self-regulation is different from a training or educational program. Training programs offer a certificate of attendance when an individual completes the coursework, but they do not generally award a credential or require ongoing recertification. The ABA Australia professional self-regulation program was developed using a nationally recognised process to define the roles and responsibilities of behaviour analysts. Individuals who meet the eligibility requirements and are granted use of the ABA Australia credential.

The Role of Behaviour Analyst

Behaviour analysts are university educated allied health professionals who evaluate, design, and implement individualised programs to improve skills. A primary focus of their work is to understand the relationship between a behaviour and various environmental factors. This viewpoint creates a good foundation for working with their clients to develop new behaviours and adjust existing behaviours to improve the relationships with others and make participating in their daily life easier. Behaviour analysts work in a variety of settings such as homes, schools, residential homes, nursing homes, hospitals, workplaces assisting with organisation behaviour management, universities, etc.

Scope of Practice

We have adopted the definition of the “practice of applied behaviour analysis” from the Association of Professional Behaviour Analysts (2018).

PRACTICE OF APPLIED BEHAVIOR ANALYSIS. The design, implementation, and evaluation of instructional and environmental modifications to produce socially significant improvements in human behavior. The practice of applied behavior analysis includes the empirical identification of functional relations between behaviour and environmental factors, known as functional assessment and analysis. Applied behavior analysis interventions are based on scientific research and direct and indirect observation and measurement of behavior and environment. They utilize contextual factors, motivating operations, antecedent stimuli, positive reinforcement, and other procedures to help individuals develop new behaviors, increase or decrease existing behaviors, and emit behaviours under specific environmental conditions. The practice of applied behavior analysis excludes diagnosis of disorders, psychological testing, psychotherapy, cognitive therapy, psychoanalysis, and counseling. (Association of Professional Behavior Analysts, 2018, pp. 4-5)

Eligibility Criteria

ABA Australia has developed requirements for eligibility inline with the standards set out by the National Alliance for Self Regulating Health Professional (NASRHP). NASRHP's purpose is to provide a framework for self-regulating professions to follow to enhance public confidence in that profession.

All applicants for certification must meet all the eligibility requirements established by ABA Australia in effect at the time of their application for certification. Eligibility requirements are stated in this document.

There are a number of primary eligibility criteria for a professional member of ABA Australia. These are based on the applicant's education, work experience, recency of practice, English language proficiency, and agreeing to mandatory declarations, which are discussed in more detail below. An applicant must satisfy all of these criteria.

Education

For professional members of ABA Australia, the applicant must hold a qualification that meets a minimum education standards.

The applicant must have an undergraduate degree or graduate certification (AQF level 7 or 8) in any field (e.g., behaviour analysis, psychology, education, PBS, chemistry, nursing, etc.) from an Australian university or international university (equivalent to an Australian university).

Work Experience

Applicants for the professional membership must ensure that they have met the work experience requirement. Applicants must demonstrate that they have met the minimum 1000 hour of work experience within 2 years. The applicant must have their employer write a letter to attest that they have worked for 1000 hours in the field of applied behaviour analysis. Please use the template provided.

Recency of Practice

As an applicant for the professional membership you must meet the Recency of Practice requirements. Recency of Practice means that a practitioner has maintained contemporary practice within their profession since obtaining their qualification. Recency of Practice is assessed according to the applicant's curriculum vitae (CV). Included in your CV must be details of a referee who can confirm Recency of Practice.

Practice Definition

Practice is defined as:

“Indicates that an individual is drawing on their relevant professional skills and knowledge in the course of their work to contribute to safe and effective delivery of services within the profession. For the purposes of this standard, practice is not restricted to the provision of direct clinical care and may also include working in a direct nonclinical relationship with clients; working in management, administration, education, research, advisory, regulatory or policy development roles for example. This work can be of a paid or formal volunteer nature on a full or part time basis.” (NASRHP, 2016)

Meeting the minimum number of hours

‘Practice’ requires that a practitioner has practised for a minimum of 1000 hours in the last 5 years. (NASRHP, 2016)

English Language Proficiency

Applicants will need to meet the English language requirements of ABA Australia to be eligible for membership. Please review our English Language Policy for specific requirements.

Professional Indemnity Insurance

ABA Australia recommends that all professional members are covered by professional indemnity insurance.

As stated by NASRHP:

Insurance which covers people who provide professional services and/or advice from civil liability claims arising from that service and/or advice as a result of a negligent act, error or omission in the conduct of the practitioner (NASRHP, 2016).

Please note that having professional indemnity insurance is now a requirement in the Code of Conduct for all NDIS providers, both registered and unregistered. It is also a requirement in the states or territories where the National Code of Conduct for Unregistered Health Professions is in place.

Mandatory Declarations

The applicant must make declarations to ABA Australia at the time of their initial membership application and at every renewal. The declarations are a mandatory requirement for the duration of the ABA Australia membership. In making these declarations, the individual is self-assessing their suitability for membership in and certification with ABA Australia. These are legally binding statements.

The following declaration must be made:

- I have read, understand, and agree to abide by ABA Australia's Code of Ethical Practice
- I have read and declare that I meet the recency of practice requirements
- I have read and agree to abide by the ABA Australia Continuing Professional Development Policy
- I am a professional in good standing
- I have no restrictions to practice and no pending disciplinary actions in Australia or elsewhere
- I have not been convicted of any offence resulting in imprisonment in Australia or elsewhere.
- I have read, understand, and agree to ABA Australia's Privacy Policy.
- I declare that my work experience adhered to the 7 dimensions of ABA (Baer, Wolf & Risley, 1968)
- I declare that the information is true and correct.
- I agree to inform ABA Australia as soon as practical if there are any changes to the above information.

To ensure that you are following the mandatory declaration please read all the documents linked in the declaration statements. If you believe that you can follow those requirements, then agree to the mandatory declarations in the online application.

If there is a declaration(s) that you cannot follow, you must notify the ABA Australia Membership Committee as soon as possible. You will be asked to provide a written statement outlining the reason(s) you cannot make the declaration, in the form of a statutory declaration and accompanied by substantiating evidence.
